FLAMME'S ROYAL STAMP TRAIL

13 STAMPS · 1 SECRET

Thirteen stamps hidden in a palace eight hundred years old — and one royal word to carry home.

BEFORE YOU START

Hello! I am Flamme.

FLAMME SAYS

I am a salamander, and I have lived in this palace for five hundred years. A king put me on his walls because people believed a salamander could sit in a fire and not burn.

I know every corner of this place – including the one nobody tells you about. Collect all thirteen stamps and I will show you the secret one.

1. Find the station on the map. Every one has a number and a stamping post.
2. Do the page FIRST. Look, count, fill in. Then you have earned it.
3. Press the stamp once, firmly, in the dotted square. Lift it straight up.
4. Copy your LETTER into the gold circle. Thirteen letters make one word.

WHO YOU WILL MEET

Four faces, one palace

FLAMME

Ageless

A salamander with a crown. François I put me on these walls 500 years ago and I have never left. I do not burn. I am also very good at hiding.

KING LOUIS IX

1214 – 1270

He came here to hunt in the great forest and loved the quiet of it. In his day Fontainebleau was a castle with a keep, not a palace.

KING FRANÇOIS I

1494 – 1547

He turned the old castle into a palace, brought artists over the Alps from Italy, and built the long gallery where Flamme lives.

EMPEROR NAPOLEON I

1769 – 1821

He called this place the house of the ages. He turned the king's bedroom into a throne room – and said goodbye to his army in the front courtyard.

? Draw a line from each person to the thing they left behind.

FLAMME	the long gallery
LOUIS IX	the throne and the golden bees
FRANÇOIS I	the salamander badge
NAPOLEON I	the oldest stones

1 The Courtyard of the White Horse

Cour du Cheval Blanc

F

FLAMME SAYS

Walk to the middle and turn round. On 20 April 1814 Napoleon stood on these steps and said goodbye to his soldiers. That is why this courtyard has a second name: the Courtyard of Farewells.

STAMP HERE

LOOK FOR

The staircase splits in two and curves. What everyday object is that shape?

1 Napoleon said goodbye to his army here on 20 April 18 ☐☐.

2 The staircase is shaped like a…

LADDER HORSESHOE TRIANGLE

CIRCLE ONE

3 Count the chimneys on the roof in front of you.

☐☐☐☐☐☐☐☐☐☐☐☐

DID YOU KNOW?

The courtyard is named after a white plaster horse that stood here 500 years ago. The horse is long gone. The name stayed.

2 The Chapel of the Trinity

Chapelle de la Trinité

O

FLAMME SAYS

Look UP, not down. The whole ceiling is a painting. A king was married under it – Louis XV, in 1725 – and a baby who grew up to become an emperor was christened under it in 1810.

STAMP HERE

LOOK FOR

Find one animal, one angel and one cloud in the ceiling.

1 A king was married in this room.

TRUE FALSE

2 The ceiling is plain white stone.

TRUE FALSE

3 Draw one thing you found on the ceiling.

DID YOU KNOW?

Kings watched mass from a balcony up at the back, so they never had to sit down with everybody else.

3 The King's Staircase

Escalier du Roi

N

FLAMME SAYS

This staircase used to be a BEDROOM. It belonged to a duchess. A hundred years after she slept here, the floor was taken out and her room became a grand staircase – which is why there are painted panels and plaster ladies high up, where nobody was ever meant to walk.

STAMP HERE

LOOK FOR

4 The Gallery of François I

Galerie François I

T

FLAMME SAYS

This is my home. King François I built this long gallery nearly 500 years ago and put ME on the walls, the ceiling and the woodwork. People used to believe a salamander could sit in a fire and not burn, so the king chose me for his badge and gave me a motto in Latin: NUTRISCO ET EXTINGUO.

STAMP HERE

LOOK FOR

Walk the whole gallery slowly. I am hiding more times than you think.

1 NUTRISCO ET EXTINGUO means: I _____ the good fire and I _____ the bad one.

2 The king's own letter is carved all along the gallery. Which is it?

The Ballroom

Salle de Bal

FLAMME SAYS

A room built for dancing, finished for King Henri II. Two shapes come back again and again on the walls, the floor and the ceiling: the letter H, and a crescent moon. The H is for Henri. The crescent moon was his badge – the way the salamander is mine.

STAMP HERE

FLAMME SAYS

For nearly 200 years this was the king's BEDROOM. Then in 1808 Napoleon had the bed taken out and a throne put in. It is the only throne room left in France that is still standing in its own original room. Look for his letter N, and his little golden bees.

8 The Turkish Room

Boudoir Turc

FLAMME SAYS

The smallest room on the trail, and the fanciest. It was made for Marie-Antoinette in 1777 as a tiny private room – somewhere to be ALONE in a palace full of people. The decoration copies the palaces of Turkey, nearly 2,500 km away.

11 The Oval Court & the Golden Gate

Cour Ovale & Porte Dorée

FLAMME SAYS

The oldest corner of all. Everything you have walked through was built on top of a medieval castle, and this egg-shaped courtyard still has the castle's shape. The square tower is the keep: the oldest building here, from the days of knights in armour. The Golden Gate beside it was the front door in 1528.

STAMP HERE

LOOK FOR

Stand in the middle and turn all the way round. Not one wall is straight.

- ☐ The Golden Gate (1528)
- ☐ The horseshoe staircase (1634)
- ☐ The medieval keep (the 1100s)
- ☐ The Louis XV wing (the 1700s)

DID YOU KNOW?

Eight hundred years of building, and nobody ever knocked the old castle down. They just kept building around it.

THE SECRET STAMP · GARDEN

The Fountain of Beautiful Water

La Fontaine Belle Eau — Jardin Anglais

FLAMME SAYS

Here is the secret, and it is the best one. In this garden there is a spring: water that comes up out of the ground all by itself. Hundreds of years ago people called it the fontaine belle eau – the fountain of beautiful water. Say those three words quickly, and you have just said the name of this whole place.

SECRET STAMP

LOOK FOR

Water coming up out of the ground all by itself. Put one finger in. It is cold all year round.

1. FONTAINE means _____ .
2. BELLE means _____ .
3. EAU means _____ .
4. So FONTAINEBLEAU means:

ONE LAST THING

Everybody who comes here says the name. Almost nobody knows they are saying "the fountain of beautiful water". Now you are one of the people who does.

THE LAST THING TO DO

The Royal Word

Write the letter from each stamp page into its own box, in order, 1 to 13. If you have them all, you have just spelled the name of this place – and you can claim the secret stamp.

1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	10	11	12	13

FLAMME SAYS

Thirteen rooms, thirteen letters, one word. Say it out loud! Now go and find the fountain in the English garden, and you will find out what it means.

SECRET STAMP

MISSING A LETTER?

Go back. The stamp you missed is still there, and so is the room. Nothing here is in a hurry – it has been standing for more than eight hundred years.

YOUR TURN

Design your own badge

François I chose a salamander. Henri II chose a crescent moon. Napoleon chose a bee. Each of them picked something that said who they were — and then stuck it on absolutely everything they owned.

Who's who – Louis IX: the oldest stones. François I: the long gallery. Napoleon I: the throne and the golden bees. Flamme: the salamander badge.

The royal word – FONTAINEBLEAU.

The counting questions have no single right answer. They are there to slow a child down in front of an object. If they count eleven salamanders and you count fourteen, you have both won.

NUTRISCO ET EXTINGUO

"I feed the good fire, and I put out the bad one."

The motto François I gave his salamander, painted and carved all over this palace since 1528.
